

Instruction is a Client's order to open or close trading positions, or installation, removal or modification of the order level. Disposal of this order dealer to buy or sell a specific amount of a financial instrument at a specified market price of the instruments. The trading terminal just follow a few simple steps to send an order to the Dealer. As soon as the order comes to the dealer, it is accepted for immediate execution, and the result sent the order can be seen in a few moments. Instructions may be sent through the trading platform or via a telephone line. The latter method has remained from the past, when this method was the principal. When sending orders through the trading platform, it is immediately delivered to the merchant server for immediate execution. In case of sending orders via telephone channel, customer must contact the employee to transfer his disposal to carry out the necessary client trading operation. It implements in the shortest possible time.