

Password of Investor - a secret sequence of characters generated by the trading platform on creation the trading account. This password allows you to enter to the customer's trading account without performing any trading operations. By this the investor password is different from the trader password, where the client can make any necessary transactions in accordance with its trading system.

Most often the investor password is required in the case of asset management of trading account. Here investor directs trader to manage his trading account. In such cases, the trader password is transmitted to the trader. The password of investor remains from the owner of trading account in order to monitor the current trade situation on account.

As a trader's password, the investor password must be stored in a safe place. So nobody else can interfere in the work of account managing.
