

Normal market conditions is a relatively calm market conditions, characterized by the following market conditions: the absence of relatively large gaps between income market quotes to the trading platform, the dynamics of prices is relatively calm, with no sudden jumps in the cost of rapid base currency, there are no significant gaps on the chart. All of these market conditions characterized by normal market conditions under which you can open trading positions without much risk of unexpected market behavior in the direction of increasing the cost of a financial instrument or fall.